

The European Commission's strategy on Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) 2011-2014: achievements, shortcomings and future challenges

Fields marked with * are mandatory.

1 Introduction - Background and explanatory remark

1. Purpose of this Public Consultation

The Commission launches this public consultation in order to receive feedback on the implementation of its most recent policy on Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR), which is outlined in the Communication "A renewed EU strategy 2011-14 for Corporate Social Responsibility" (COM(2011) 681).

The results of this public consultation will be summarised in a technical report and further inform the preparation of the plenary meeting of the multi-stakeholder forum on CSR, which is planned for February 2015. These two events will provide the most essential input for the Commission's work on the direction of its CSR policy after 2014.

2. Key elements of the CSR Communication (COM(2011) 681)

The Commission presented its current CSR strategy on 25 October 2011. At the center of this strategy stands the objective of helping enterprises achieve their full potential to create wealth, jobs and innovative solutions to the many challenges facing Europe's society. It sets out how enterprises can benefit from CSR as well as contribute to society as a whole by taking greater steps to meet their social responsibility.

The Commission's CSR strategy is built upon pertinent international CSR principles and guidelines, namely the ten principles of the UN Global Compact, ILO Tri-partite Declaration of Principles Concerning Multinational Enterprises and Social Policy, OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises, ISO 26000 Guidance Standard on Social Responsibility and United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights.

One of the key elements of the Commission's CSR Communication is a modernised definition of this concept, which should provide greater clarity for enterprises, and contribute to greater global consistency in the expectations on business, regardless of where they operate. The Commission defined CSR as "the responsibility of enterprises for their impacts on society".

Although there is no "one-size-fits-all" approach to CSR, and for most small and medium-sized enterprises the CSR process remains informal, complying with legislation is the basic requirement for an enterprise to meet its social responsibility. Beyond that, enterprises should, in the Commission's view, have a process in place to integrate social, environmental, ethical human rights and consumer concerns into their business operations and core strategy in close cooperation with their stakeholders. The aim is:

- To maximise the creation of shared value, which means to create return on investment for the company's shareholders at the same time as ensuring benefits for the company's other stakeholders;
- To identify, prevent and mitigate possible adverse impacts which enterprises may have on society.

The Commission's approach to CSR follows the assumption that the development of CSR should be led by enterprises themselves. Public authorities should play a supporting role through a smart mix of voluntary policy measures and, where necessary, complementary regulation, for example in the fields of transparency, the creation of market incentives and corporate accountability.

3. The Commission's agenda for action – what has been done

In the CSR Communication, the Commission put forward an action agenda for the period 2011-2014 covering 8 areas. The agenda for action and the Commission's related activities include:

1. Enhancing the visibility of CSR and disseminating good practices:
 - 1.1 In 2013, the European Commission organised the first European CSR awards;
 - 1.2 The Commission launched three projects for the establishment of sector-based multi-stakeholder platforms for enterprises and stakeholders to make commitments and jointly monitor progress (see the projects in the Fruit Juice, Machine tools and Social Housing sectors).
2. Improving and tracking levels of trust in business: the Commission published in 2013 a Eurobarometer survey on citizen trust in business.
3. Improving self- and co-regulation processes: the Commission launched a Community of Practice platform to work with business and other organizations to develop a code of good practice to guide the development of future self- and co-regulation initiatives.
4. Enhancing market reward for CSR: the Commission revised its public procurement Directives to take better account of environmental and social concerns. The Commission also co-sponsored a project on building the capacity of the European investment community to use and integrate environmental, social and governance (ESG) information.
5. Improving company disclosure of social and environmental information: the Commission revised the Accounting Directives on the disclosure of non-financial and diversity information by certain large companies and groups.
6. Further integrating CSR into education, training and research: the Commission sponsored for example a research project on Impact Measurement and Performance Analysis of CSR.
7. Emphasizing the importance of national and sub-national CSR policies: the Commission launched a CSR peer review process with EU Member States to facilitate the development and/or revision of their own plans for the promotion of CSR.
8. Better aligning European and global approaches to CSR:

8.1. Focusing on internationally recognised CSR principles and guidelines: the Commission published a first monitoring report of the commitments of large European enterprises to take account of internationally recognized guidelines and principles.

8.2. Implementing the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights: the Commission published guidance material for SMEs and three sectors.

8.3. Emphasising CSR in relations with other countries and regions in the world: as an example, CSR features more frequently on the agenda of political dialogues with third countries and trade negotiations (see for example the EU-South Korean Free Trade Agreement, Art. 13.6 (2) and Annex 13 1. (d)).

The full implementation table regarding the Commission's activities can be found here.

This public consultation aims in particular to receive feedback on the various activity streams in order to learn whether they were useful, successful or whether specific actions were missing. It also aims to receive input about what future challenges exist in CSR and what prospective activities might be required.
